Let's Start!

Never make a promise you can't keep!

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information about people's jobs and places of work in communicative situations

Ask your partner:

- When do you make promises?
- What promises do you make?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about subjects to study.
- I can talk about hypothetical actions and events in the future.
- I can make and respond to promises.

Let's Explore!

Peter is talking to the school Registrar. How many courses does he need to take?

* A "course" is a series of lessons that are organized around a topic to study, like math or history.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Peter: Hello. I'm working as an intern at a software company right now.
Registrar: Oh yes, that's the co-op program in the business department.
Peter: Yes. I would like to continue working there. If I stay at the company, I'll gain a lot of valuable experience in my field.
Registrar: OK.
Peter: I enrolled in one math, two accounting and one HR course starting next week. I won't be able to work at MechaTech if I start the courses.
Registrar: Those courses are obligatory for your degree. Maybe you could study part-time.
Peter: Do you mean take fewer courses?
Registrar: Yes. You have to apply to the Registrar for special permission. If you take two courses now, you will take other courses during the summer.
Peter: Great! I promise I'll take the courses this summer. Thank you!
Registrar: Alright, here's the application form.

Let's Practice!

What courses are you taking?

Instructions: Draw a line from the first part of the statement on the left to the second part on the right.

Learning Points

The First Conditional

You can use the First Conditional to talk about actions and situations in the future.

There are two parts to the sentence. One part is the condition. The other part is the result.

Form:

If + subject + Simple Present tense + subject + will

You use a comma after the condition in this form.

Condition	Result
If I stay at the company,	I'll gain a lot of valuable experience in my field.

You can change the two parts of the sentence so that the result comes first.

Result	Condition
I won't be able to work at MechaTech	if I start the courses.

Making and Responding to Promises

You use the Future tense (with will) to make promises.

You can start the sentence with "I promise I'll ... " or "I promise to ... ".

You can respond to promises with an expression like:

Great, thank you!

Alright.

OK.

That's fine.

Sure, that works.

Examples:

• John: I will help you with your math homework tomorrow.

Helen: Great, thank you!

• Peter: I promise I'll take the courses this summer.

Registrar: Alright.
